

Beagle Health Website General Data Protection Regulation

New Regulations came into force on the 25th May 2018 to protect the rights and privacy of individuals-this is known as the General Data Protection Regulation or GDPR.

The Administrators are committed to maintaining the privacy and rights of the individuals who have sent in data to the website. The Beagle Health Website is committed to only publishing data and information which has been given with permission. Only the data which is given with permission will be included in the database and reproduced on the information pages. UK results will be sent to the Kennel Club once they are recording the results and information will only be used for the above purpose and will never be given to a third party unless the owner explicitly gives permission.

To compile the database some personal information on ownership of beagles and email addresses is held. By submitting the information the owner of the beagle(s) is giving consent for it to be published as listed. Any other personal information is securely stored by the Breed Health Coordinator's computer in an electronic form or paper file.
